

By the King.

Hereas wee did lately prorogue our Parliament till the ninth day of November now next comming: Forasmuch as the Sicknesse hath of late somewhat increased in and about our Citie of London, by reason whereof we have already by our proclamation published the adiournement of part of Michaelmas Terme now at hand, The same cause doeth much more require the proroguing of the Parliament, lest so great a concourse of people as the Terme and Parliament (holding at one time) must draw together, should give occasion to continue or spread the Infection, both in the Citie it selfe, and other parts of the Realme, which our care is to prevent. Wee haue therefore thought fit, to prorogue our said Parliament againe untill the ninth day of February now next ensuing, At which day our purpose is (God willing) to hold the same, And doe therefore hereby give notice to all Whom it may concerne, that they may frame their affaires accordingly, and attend at the same ninth day of February to that Service.

Given at our Honour of Hampton Court the fixe and twentieth day of September, in the seuenth yeere of our Reigne of Great Britaine, France and Ireland.

God saue the King.

Printed at London by Robert Barker,

Printer to the Kings most Excellent Maiestie.

ANNO 1609.